TINA RAMCHANDANI
on VICENTE WOLF

"I'm very fortunate to have worked for designer Vicente Wolf, who I view as a personal mentor, friend, and ongoing source of design inspiration. His worldly, refined aesthetic influences designers of all ages to discover their process and foster a design lens that's unique and personal. His extensive industry knowledge and expertise with the intricacies of running a business have been invaluable for me to observe and learn from on a daily basis."

KELLY HOHLA

on JEAN MICHAEL FRANK

"From the beginning of my design career, I have always had a great admiration for the work of Jean-Michel Frank. He was a master of clean, pure, and precise design and his work still looks fresh and relevant to me today. He was ahead of his time, and created a new modernity, which is still utilized in current furniture design today. I admire his restraint, use of interesting materials, and embrace the idea that he introduced of understated luxury. He was a trail blazer and an inspiration."

ERICK ESPINOZA

on ALBERT HADLEY

"Albert was revolutionary. Truly. He decorated from the depths of his soul and it always shined. He could read a room like a book and always knew the appropriate floor plan and details necessary to make the room feel special and, at the same time, like it was always that way. Timeless. When I was in college, I received the Albert Hadley scholarship for my studies so I also have a special place in my heart for him because of it."

BLAKE BRUNSON

on MILES REDD

"Miles Redd's interiors say 'Sit down, have a cocktail, and let's be beautiful.' Who doesn't want that?"

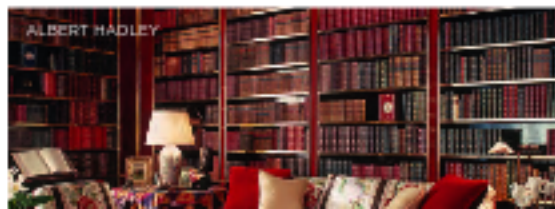

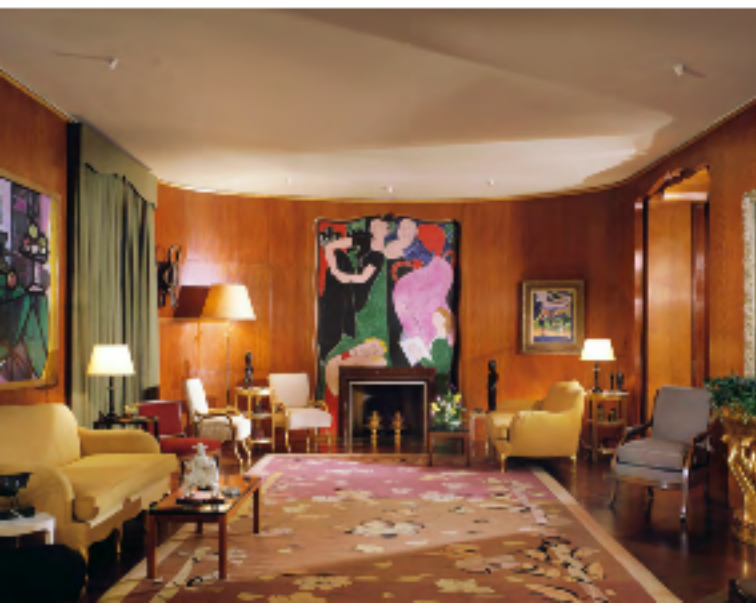

ALLISON ALLEN

on BUNNY WILLIAMS

"As a fellow southerner, my favorite will always be Bunny Williams, who has mastered the art of creating timeless and beautiful spaces that don't ever feel fancy or overworked."
