Tina Ramchandani Creates A Space For Entertaining In The West Village

For her clients' second home, designer Tina Ramchandani wanted to give the couple a classic New York City feel, with muted, modern edges that were perfect for entertaining friends before

They were clear about their overall vision of muted, neutral tones, and since they loved that cognac color, we decided to bring it into the main living area. We did this in the dining chairs, flowers, and subtle touches in embellishments including throw pillows and art.” In the dining area, the table is by Studio Twenty Seven, the chairs are from Design Within Reach, and the pendant is by Lee Broom.
